Hold fast to dreams
for if dreams die,
life dies
broken wings of that cannot fly.

Langston Hughes

The important thing is this:
to be able at any moment to sacrifice what we are for what we could become

-Charles Du Bois

Too much sanity
may be madness
and the maddest of all,
to see life as it is
and not as it should be.

-Man of La Mancha

A dreamer lives forever

Life is either a daring adventure or nothing.

-Helen Keller

In the midst of winter
I finally learned that there was in me an invincible summer.

-Camus

If any man seeks greatness,
let him forget greatness
and ask for truth
and he will find both.

-Mann

To wonder is to begin to understand.

Happiness is like a butterfly
The more you chase it
The more it will elude you
But if you turn your attention to other things
It comes and softly sits on your shoulder.

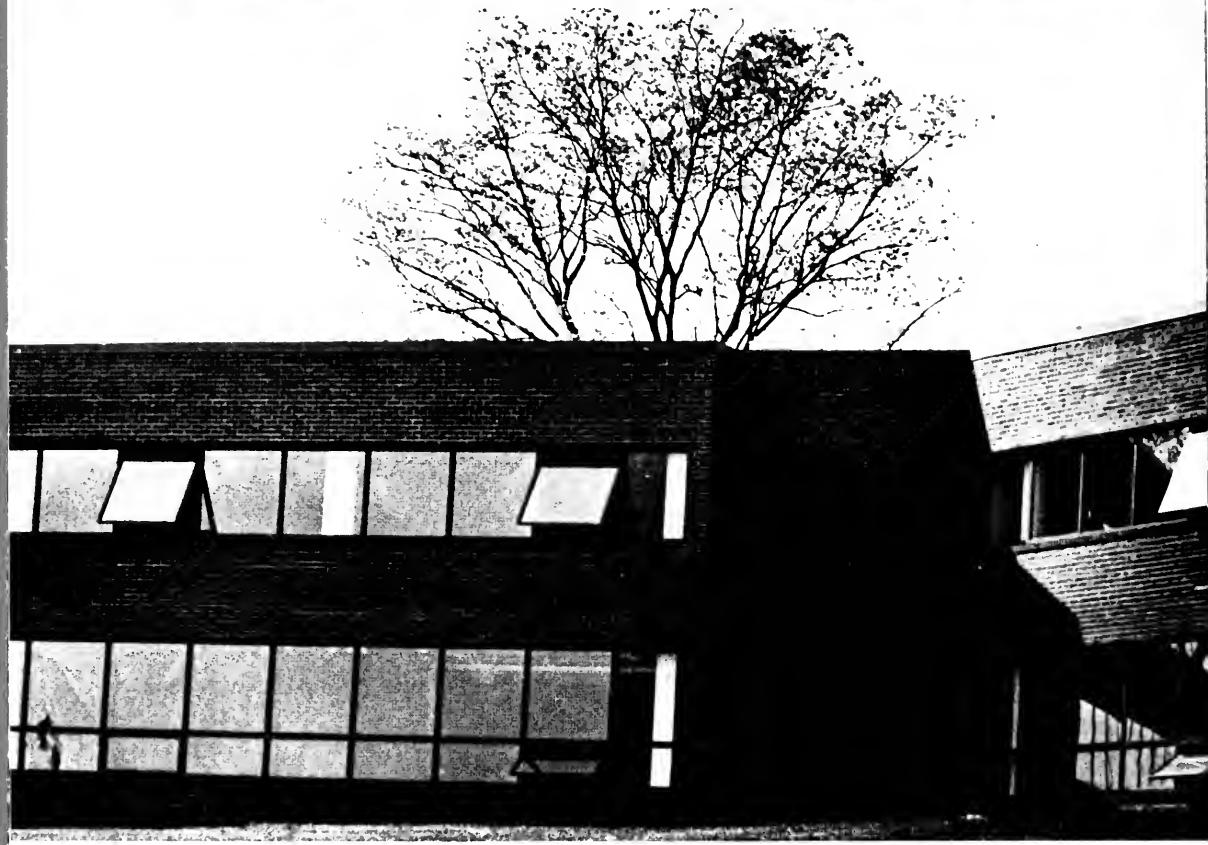

...from the new and improved
Oklahoma Commissioners
Courtroom for a new building.

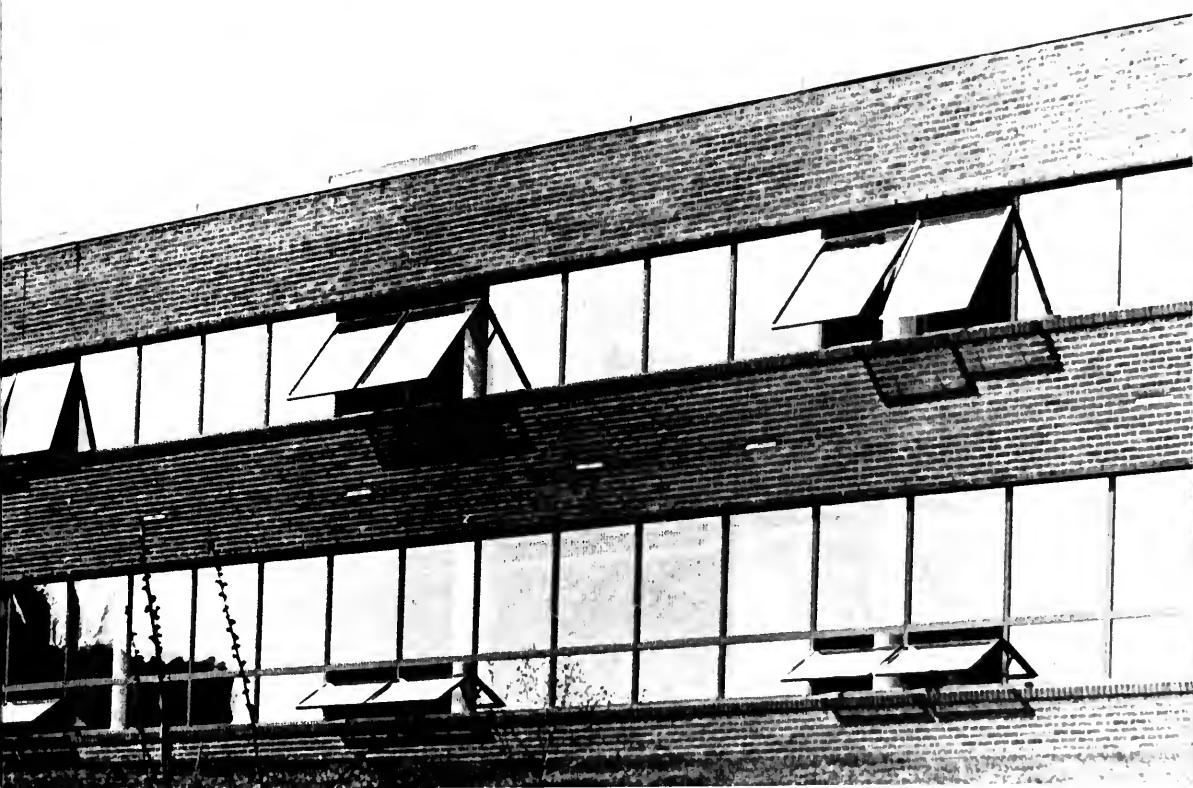

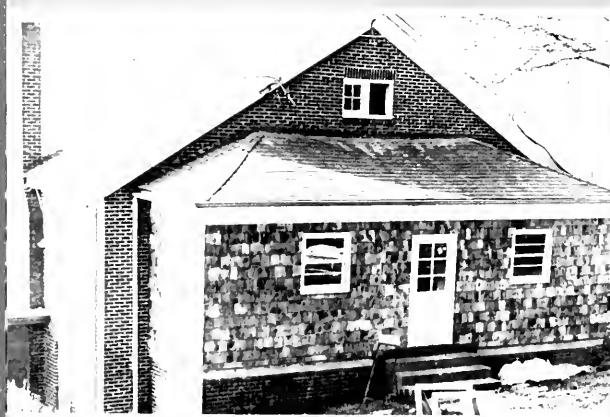

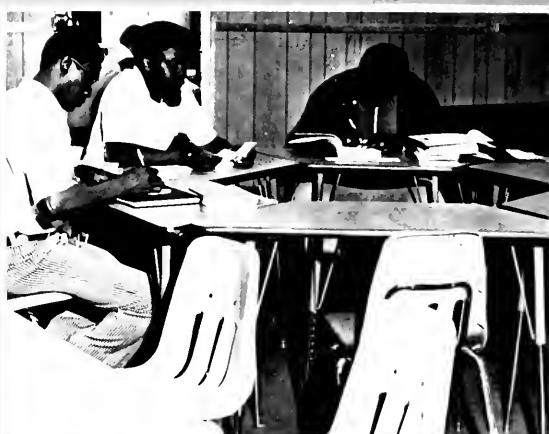

In 1972, the architect drew up plans for the new Tech building. The groundbreaking was held in the fall of 1973, and we were on our way to new dimensions. The building sprung up in stages, and each step brought CCTI closer to the realization of a dream.

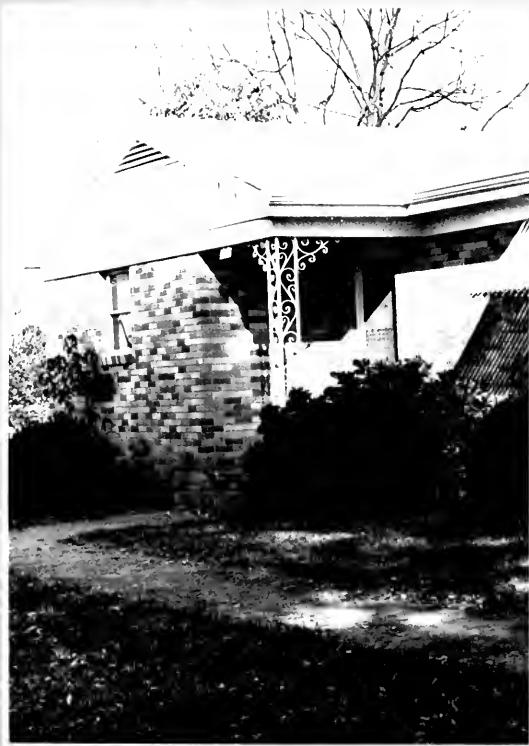

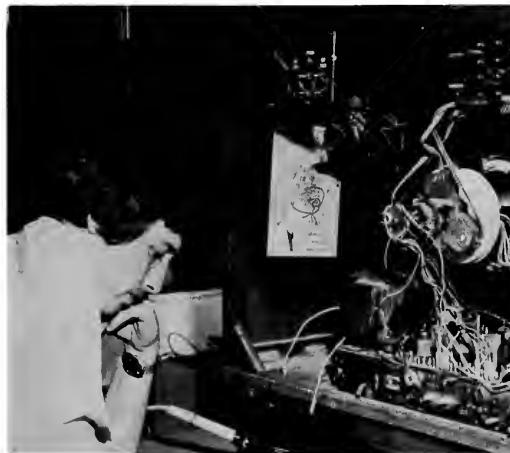

When the school was first built, there was no room designated to accommodate new students. The teacher had to travel between classes to move a chair from one room to another to accommodate each new student. Now, a room has been set aside for her own workspace. The teacher is very pleased.

The old building building will be used by the Student

The old sheds are empty during the day, but are utilized during night classes. They are storage areas. CCTV's Police Science students moved from an office in a house. From the looks of the parking lot at night, one can understand why every available room is used to its best advantage. The ratio of night to day students increases dramatically.

CCTI students get on-the-job training which broadens their classroom studies. These skills will aid them throughout their lives. Here are examples of the medical secretarial, nursing, electronics, police science, and clothing construction students at work.

Walk with the sun,
Dance at high noon;
And dream when night falls black;
But when the stars
Vie with the moon,
Then call the lost dream back.

happy are those who dream dreams and are ready to pay the price
to make them come true

Advice to Young Ladies

A.U.C. 334: about this date
For a sexual misdemeanour, which she denied,
The vestal virgin Postumia was tried.
Livy records it among affairs of state.

They let her off: it seems she was perfectly pure;
The charge arose because some thought her talk
Too witty for a young girl, her eyes, her walk
Too lively, her clothes too smart to be demure.

The Pontifex Maximus, summing up the case,
Warned her in future to abstain from jokes,
To wear less modish and more pious frocks.
She left the court reprieved, but in disgrace.

What then? With her the annualist is less Concerned than what the men achieved that year:
Plots, quarrels, crimes, with oratory to spare!
I see Postumia with her dowdy dress.

Stiff mouth and listless step; I see her strive
To give dull answers. She had to knuckle down.
A vestal virgin who scandalized that town
Had fair trial, then they buried her alive.

Alive, bricked up in suffocating dark,
A ration of bread, a pitcher if she was dry,
Preserved the body they did not wish to die
Until her mind was quenched to the last spark.

How many the black maw has swallowed in its time!
Spirited girls who would not know their place;
Talented girls who found that the disgrace

Of being a woman made genius a crime;
How many others, who would not kiss the rod
Domestic bullying broke or public shame?
Pagan or Christian, it was much the same:
Husbands, St. Paul declared, rank next to God.

Livy and Paul, it may be, never knew
That Rome was doomed; each spoke of her with pride,
Tacitus, writing after both had died,
Showed that whole fabric rotten through and through.

Historians spend their lives and lavish ink
Explaining how great commonwealths collapse
From great defects of policy---perhaps
The cause is sometimes simpler than they think.

It may not seem so grave an act to break
Postumia's spirit as Galileo's, to gag
Hypatia as crush Socrates, or drag
Joan as Giordano Bruno to the stake.

Can we be sure? Have more states perished, then,
For having shackled the enquiring mind,
Than those who, in their folly not less blind,
Trusted the servile womb to breed free men?

Cleveland County Technical Institute: Past And Present

In 1965, after obtaining the consent of the Cleveland County Commissioners, the Collegiate School of Cleveland College "Cleveland College" began its education operation under Mr. James E. Porter, Director. Mr. Porter had been principal of the school. Mr. Porter obtained his B.S. Degree. He later attended Appalachian State University where he obtained his M.A. Degree. He did graduate work at N.C. State U.N.C., and is currently working toward his Doctorate in Administration Degree at Nova University. Mr. Porter is married to the former Wilma Thompson and they have two daughters, Vicki, 5 years old; and Jill, who is 9 years old. He resides with his family Route 3, in the Poplar Springs community.

The rapid growth of the institute triggered the need for more space. After touring the County Home property, which at that time had been condemned as unfit for a home for the then step forward when it became a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools on Correspondent Status. In the fall of 1973 Cleveland Tech's affiliation with South Association was changed to Candidate for Accreditation.

Today, Cleveland Tech has reached an enrollment of 1,001 students . . . 273 day students, and 729 night students. Employees during the year totaled 186—61 full-time, and 125 part-time.

We now have available 31 classrooms on campus, 10 at the High School, and 8 at Elizabethtown Church. This is a total of 59 classrooms. The new building will add 25 classrooms. This will then give us a total of 84 classrooms, or 56 since we will use classes at the high school and church to relieve our situation.

We now offer a total curriculum and plan of 20 or more by 1975. Radiological Technology course will be offered; curriculum in electronics added.

The completion date expected for the new building is August 1, 1974, with an expected cost of $1,114,000. We are all looking forward to using the new building and to an even brighter future for Cleveland County Technical Institute in the years to come.

On October 2, 1967, a local Board of Trustees was officially appointed. The enrollment figure, meantime, jumped to 66 persons; more than twice the original enrollment.

The first Board of Trustees consisted of eight trustees and was appointed by drawing lots. The members and their expected terms were as follows:

Ruby Lerner, a native of Caldwell County and currently a candidate for the Master of Arts degree in dramatic art at the University of N.C. at Chapel Hill, joined the Cleveland Tech staff September 9 as Visiting Artist for the 1974-75 school year. She comes to Cleveland County from Central Piedmont Community College, where she was publicity director and house co-ordinator for Central Piedmont's Summer Theatre.

BOW-WOW, a children's play, was presented in October for local school children. Ms. Lerner, Gene Cox, Ted Cash, and Dottie McIntyre were featured.

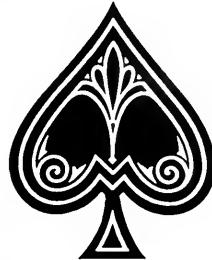

THE DEATH AND LIFE OF SNEAKY FITCH presented in December marked the first major production of the season. The play, sponsored by CCTI and the Performing Arts Guild of Cleveland and Rutherford Counties, was a cooperative effort of the student body, faculty, and administration of CCTI as well as the community-at-large. The easy atmosphere created by the serving of "red-eye" punch in the lobby, carried through the play itself, and the barn was filled with enthusiastic crowds all four nights of production.

According to Brenda Crosby, "Star" staff writer, SNEAKY FITCH "... provided Shelby with one of the finest evenings of entertainment that's been around in a long time ..." and had "... just a little bit of everything one could ask for in entertainment ranging from broad comedy to moments of unexpected introspection ..."

The Annual Staff wishes to express a very special "thank you" to our photographer, Elwin Stilwell. He counseled us, encouraged us, and diligently worked both with and for us. In the last few days before a deadline, Elwin spent the late hours of the night and the early hours of the morning in his darkroom. All toward the sole purpose of producing a good yearbook for Cleveland Tech. We think he made it.

At the end of this section you will find additional student pictures. These students had their pictures made late, or their photos were inadvertently overlooked during the first go-round. Some of the pictures were omitted because of defects in the film; some because a few people would not cooperate with the photographer. We hope no errors will be found, but we apologize for any that were not caught in time.

Six months is a long time to work on one project. For us it meant no extra sleep on Fridays, no Thanksgiving holidays, working at home during the Christmas holidays, excessive tension and confusion, and eating at the Pizza Inn once a week. At times we felt like giving it up. When you do the same thing over 4 or 5 times, you start to lose interest. But we stuck with it, and now we have a finished product that we can all be proud of. Hopefully, there is something in this annual that will interest everyone on campus. That is what we tried to accomplish, and believe we did.

We want to thank our advisors, Dottie McIntyre and Elwin Stillwell, and the entire annual staff for the mammoth job they did.

Now we can all breathe a deep sigh of relief and sit back and accept the praise and the criticism.

Born out of his time
knowing nothing of this life
the Dreamer whispered softly to himself
He'd tried to speak to others
they had merely turned away for he was known as someone strange they must avoid
So the dreamer lived within himself detached from all the world and no one ever looked his way which brought no pain to him
He lived his life out quietly; quietly he died
A Dreamer
And none the worse for having tried

Mother was right — there is a difference between girls and boys.

*reflection in a mirror
(a fantasy)*

She is a young, attractive woman of average height and weight. She has long, dark hair, a clear, soft complexion, and green eyes that are partially hidden by her glasses. Her nose won her the nickname of "pug" in her childhood days. Her features are rather ordinary, but there's a warmth in her face that bubbles up from her heart and shines through her smile. Her countenance is one of self-assurance, and she carries herself with dignity.

She is a loving and faithful wife. Her husband looks on her with love and pride. He respects her as his equal partner, and values her as his closest friend. He also knows there is a little vamp tucked away somewhere inside her, and he dearly loves to bring it out when they get behind closed doors.

Her children are very precious to her. She wants the best for them. She is strict when it comes to discipline, but she also knows when to be soft and giving. Her children know that she is always ready to listen to their adventures and their problems. She is always ready to join their games.

Her interests vary. She loves to work with her hands. Her home is filled with the crafts she has created. Books are her passion and a spirited discussion is like water to a parched throat. She enjoys partying with friends and shopping sprees.

She relishes a challenge, and her work as a private secretary provides her with many challenges every day. She always faces them head on and solves most of them. Her co-workers respect her competency and count her as a good friend.

She also has some minor bad points such as being grumpy in the morning and lazy when it comes to housecleaning.

She has a full life with her family, home, and job. She's awfully glad to be a woman.

love is — my wife

Being there in my times of need
Holding my hands under a tree
A knowing glance between you and me
Sensing the right time to let me be

Picking me up when I fall
Brushing me off and that's not all
Making me feel strong and tall
Helping me get myself back on the ball

Sometimes just being my best friend
Or not talking of how hard things have been Just saying the right words when
Our lives could stand a little grin

Always by my side loving and true
And all those small things that you do
When life sometimes seems so blue
We take the hard times and make it through

Knowing that you'll always be there
Nothing is too hard for us to bear
And no matter how we fare
We always have our lives to share

paul daves, jr.

stop and think

Stop and think. When your wife calls you at six a.m., do you complain because you have to rise so early; or are you thankful because you have ears with which to hear her voice?

Stop and think. When your little girl rushes to show you her masterpiece (which just happens to be on the bedroom wall) do you complain because of the mess; or do you rejoice because you have eyes with which to see her proud and happy face?

Stop and think. When it's time to go to your job do you complain about the eight hours ahead; or do you thank God that you still have a job?

Stop and think. When you sit down to lunch and it's only hamburger do you complain because it's not steak; or do you thank God that your family isn't starving to death?

Stop and think. When you get your heat bill do you complain because it's too high or are you thankful that you have the comfort of a warm home?

Stop and think. When you go to church on Sunday do you complain because the service is too long; or do you rejoice because you aren't persecuted for your choice of religion?

Stop and think. When you study for exams do you complain because the material is too hard; or do you rejoice because God gave you a brain superior to all animals?

What I'm trying to say is, "We can complain because rose bushes have thorns, or rejoice because thorn bushes have roses."

prejudice

P--is for the partiality that anyone may encounter.

R--is for the racial problems that we have in the world.

E--is for the emptiness one feels after it's all over, but not forgotten.

J--is for the bad judgement, because you can't judge a person by his appearance.

U--is for the unforgettable riots that have gone down in history.

D--is for the damage caused, tangible, intangible, on property and mind.

I -- is for the innocent children that may inherit their parents' animosity.

C--is for the conflict we have in our own public schools.

E--is for the enmity or hostility we may have for even a stranger.

Put them all together--they spell PREJUDICE. A word that means PRE-JUDGE to me!

time that needs no clock

A time when the air is fresh and clean
A time called sunrise, so peaceful and serene
A time to greet the dawn of a special day
A time to think of others, in all we do and say
A time to gaze into a closet full of clothes
A time to think of others with only half of those
A time to help those in the midst of strife
A time to thank God for our gift of life
A time to end this short poem of mine
A time to thank you for taking time

BETWEEN BIRTH

the death of a soldier

The sun beats down its steady rays as I lie here. The pain of the wound to my body grows greater as I watch the blood flow in a stream, slowly to the soggy ground.

The sky turns a reddish blue with the first signs of darkness. The air is full of all the signs of a living, breathing jungle.

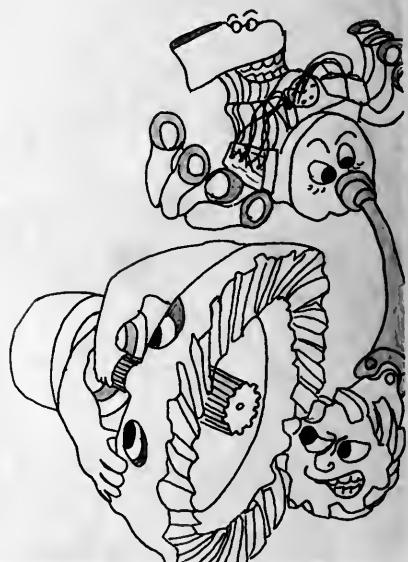

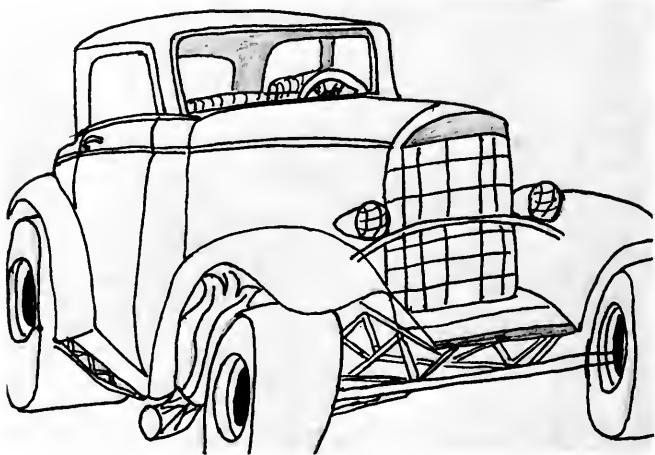

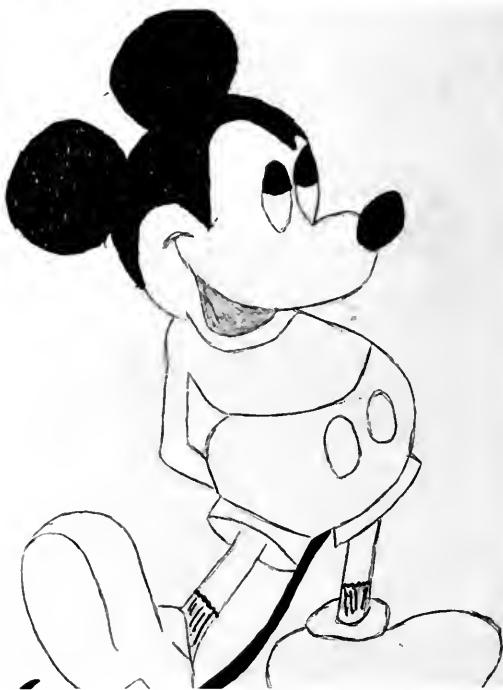

It is an injustice for a man to die in such surroundings of beauty but never-the-less it shall happen before the darkness takes all the beauty from the sky.

Thoughts of home, family and the ones for which I will die flash quickly through my pain filled mind.

But time permits no more, for all is forgotten as death creeps slowly into my mind and takes hold of all my senses and now all the beauty of living is left behind.

a prose poem: to my daughter on her fourth birthday

"Out of bounds" are you say the psychologists.
You, they say, are in the genital stage and they Find your expressions and questions perfectly appropriate.
According to them, the parental defiance, the struggle
For autonomy, and the perpetual motion are quite normal.
I suppose they're right. But I only know that Sometimes I feel . . . I feel I could squeeze you Still if only for a few minutes. Then . . . Then I Remember "Bells for John Whiteside's Daughter" and I know . . . I know that I don't want you to ever be still.
So run, my fair-haired, blue-eyed darling who wants
To be "just me" when she grows up, run, and forgive
Your exasperated, frustrated mommy who wishes that
She could free the child in herself.
Stay free. I love you.

the chorus reprises its song

Daisies, having been gently kissed by the dew, turn their faces to envelope the warmth of the sun.

Leaves brush together on the arms of the huge, lone oak as the wind whispers secrets to the rocks on the hill.

No other sound can be heard except the frightened wails of a doe giving birth to her first born.

The warm, moist grass cradles the fawn and rocks him to sleep with sweet songs by a choir of crickets.

Birds--red, blue, and yellow--join in the chorus; soaring high, resting, rejoicing over the miracle of life.

Dark clouds invade the blue heavens and cool the earth with a mist of rain, and all keep silence once more. Each drop of moisture, as precious as a rare jewel, is part of a steady transfusion of life-giving blood for Mother Earth's children.

The daisies smile and laugh and dance as they welcome every drop to their nearly parched roots.

Soon they will multiply and the field will become a carpet of white, interspersed with green and bits of yellow.

The rain ceases; clouds disappear; and all is silent. The sun reigns once again and all stand in awe of the staggering fawn--the new life. The chorus reprises its song.
